Live News Taken From Territorial Exchanges

W. A. Mayflower and family left for Phoenix yesterday where they will remain during the winter. During the absence of Mr. Mayflower F. J. Hocherder will act as supervisor of streets.—Flagstaff Sun.

Traveling Conductor J. L. Seamounts says he experienced much colder weather from Stein's Pass east. At El Paso on Tuesday night and Wednesday morning the snowfall was about two inches.—Tucson Star.

A long double header extra freight came in Wednesday on the Southern Pacific railroad. It contained forty-seven cars and was in charge of Conductor Allgood, with Engineer Nugent and Hamilton on the engine.—Tucson Star.

All our democratic exchanges publish a bill which Delegate Wilson has introduced in the senate for the relief of the wool growers in the northern counties of Arizona. If the bill ever gets before either house of congress it will be the destruction of the sheep growing industry in the section.—Flagstaff Sun.

"Phoenix has been drawing on Tucson right along. Now it is Tucson's turn at Phoenix. You ought to boom a carnival for this place in the spring. The papers can do it and Tucson is capable of carrying out a project and count on a big crowd for three days at least," said Dispatcher Shirre yesterday.—Tucson Star.

H. N. Parsons who for a long time past has been auditor of the Santa Fe in El Paso, has resigned his position and gone to Morenci, Arizona, says the Tucson Star. He has accepted the position of auditor of the Morenci South-

THE UTAH DITCH SUIT

Putting in Evidence for the Intervenor.

Another day was occupied by the testimony for the plaintiffs and intervenor yesterday in the case of Thomas P. Biggs et al vs the Utah Irrigation Ditch company et al. Or rather by testimony for the intervenor, since most of it went to show that the Indians, in behalf of whom the government intervened, had been in enjoyment of the use of water on their lands from 1877 until the certificates on which the water had been delivered, had been floated down to the so-called new settlement. These certificates, as has been explained, were never really in possession of the Indians, but had been held in trust for them by the ditch company.

The principal witness of the day was W. A. Dagg, at present the owner of one certificate, though at one time he had four more. It was brought out on cross-examination that he had rented these certificates to persons whose lands lie under the Consolidated canal. He was asked how water could be delivered there if the contention of the plaintiffs were sound, that the certificates belong to the land for which the original appropriation was made. Mr. Dagg said that it could not be consistently done, but that use of the certificates was as consistent as their employment for the delivery of water along the Utah Extension, whose underlying lands were not included in the appropriation. He had merely been trying to get even with the holders of certificates on which water was delivered along the extension.

Several Indians from the reservation of sections 35 and 36 are attending the trial accompanied by Agent Elmer Hadley of Sacaton.

Lots in Orangewood facing Central avenue, the finest boulevard in Arizona. Very reasonable.

FINANCIAL TROUBLES.

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 25.—Senator M. A. Hanna of Ohio was here today holding conferences on business matters with officials of the River coast combined. He was interviewed at the Duquesne club and said:

"The country is in excellent shape. It is not always possible to arrange to meet a speculative scare, but there is money sufficient to accommodate the business world. The present financial trouble has nothing whatever to do with actual conditions. It is simply the result of overpopulation and will not be serious. I am confident. It cannot be in any way attributed to the republican policy."

"The senate will pass the currency bill and I do not think it will require very much time. On our side there are not many speeches to be made and I do not think the democrats will talk to delay action."

"I do not care to discuss the Quay case. There is no truth in the report that the administration is anxious to intervene to end the fight."

"It has always been the custom that no man shall serve as national chairman for two consecutive terms. I will continue as chairman until the national convention meets. Who will be selected then I cannot say."

WILL PROBABLY BANQUET.

Washington, Dec. 25.—Russell R. Williams, the Baltimore youth who endeavored to commit suicide in the capitol grounds Monday afternoon, is reported to be improved in the emergency hospital. He was visited by his brother, Maxwell Williams, yesterday. The bullet is lodged in the upper part of the left lobe of the lungs, and will not be removed unless complications result.

A telegram was received at the hospital yesterday from Miss Estelle M. Gantide of 1314 North Fulton avenue, Baltimore, inquiring about the condition of Williams, who stated last night that he is engaged to that young lady. Before he shot himself he sent a farewell letter to her and a telegram to his brother. It is thought that he will recover.

FOLDED HANDS.

[These beautiful verses, quoted by Rev. Dr. Halsey at the memorial service for Mrs. Samuel Almer, whose noble life they portray, are printed by request.]

Pale, withered hands, that more than four score years Had wrought for others, soothed the hurt of tears,
Rocked children's cradles, ceased the fever's smart, Drooped balm of love in many an aching heart,
Now, stiffly folded, like wan roses
leaves pressed Above the snow and silence of her breast,
In mute appeal they told of labors
done,
And well-earned rest that came at set of sun.
From this worn brow the lines of care
had swept,
As if an angel's kiss, the white she slept,
Had smoothed the cobweb wrinkles
quite away,
And given back the peace of child-
hood's day;
And on the lips the faint smile almost
said:
"None knows life's secret but the happy dead,"
So gazing where she lay, we knew that pain
And parting could not cleave her soul
again.
And we were sure that they who saw her last,
In that dim vista which we call the past,
Who never knew her old and laid aside, Remembering best the maiden and the bride,
Had sprung to greet her with the eldest speech,
The dear sweet names no later love
can teach,
And "Welcome home" they cried, and grasped her hands;
So dwelt the mother in the best of days.

S. R. DELONG

An Interesting Story of the Life of a Pioneer.

One of the best known and best liked pioneers of Tucson is S. R. De Long, says the Tucson Citizen. Mr. De Long was born in Clinton county, N. Y., on December 28, 1828. He graduated from the college at Plattsburg, N. Y., in June, 1848, and two years later he started for the marvelous land of gold, California. He made the trip by the all-water route, around the Horn, and was lucky enough to find a chance to work his way on a ship and plucky enough to take advantage of it.

As soon as Mr. De Long arrived in California he started mining in Amador county, at which he was fairly successful. There were no free schools in California in those days and school teaching was a very profitable business. After spending several years at mining he took advantage of a good opportunity which offered itself and opened a private school at Drytown in Amador county. This school he conducted until 1863.

Mr. De Long, however, was not in California all of this time. In 1853 he made a trip back to New York state, returning in 1854. He also made a trip to New York state and back in 1856. Both of these times he made the trip each way by the steamer and Central American route. In 1858 he made a third trip east by the same route, going, however, only as far east as Minnesota, where his mother then lived. He made the trip back to California this time overland. All of the journey from Fort Smith, in the Indian Territory, to Sacramento, Cal., he made by stage, riding day and night. He was twenty-two days and nights going from Fort Smith to Sacramento. It was when upon this trip he saw Tucson the first time, for the stage went by way of El Paso, Tucson and Yuma.

In 1861 Mr. De Long enlisted as a private in the First California volunteers and in 1864 he was mustered out as a first lieutenant at Santa Fe. The most of the time that Mr. De Long was in the army he was stationed in Arizona, although a part of the time he was in New Mexico, and his time was mainly occupied with fighting Indians. He was in Tucson a number of times and was so pleased with this city that as soon as he was mustered out he came directly here.

Mr. De Long secured employment with the mining and mercantile firm of E. R. Tully and Estevan Ochot, and was received into partnership with them in 1870. In 1889 he started a mercantile business at Bowie and ran that as a side issue until 1891, although his home and principal business continued to be in Tucson. In 1881 Mr. De Long closed out all of his mercantile affairs, but still continued to devote some attention to mining. During the last twenty years Mr. De Long has owned and operated mines in a half a dozen different mining districts in Arizona and he has made and negotiated many sales. His skill as a mining expert is admitted by every miner in the territory, and there is scarcely a man in Arizona whose opinion upon mining properties is more eagerly sought after. Mr. De Long also enjoys the distinction of a successful and honorable political record. He was treasurer of Pima county in 1865 and 1869. He was the first mayor of the city of Tucson, having been elected to that office in 1871 and re-elected in 1872. He was also a member of the territorial legislature of 1875. Notwithstanding his advanced age Mr. De Long is much more active than many men at 40.—Tucson Citizen.

PADEREWSKI'S TRAINING.

The great Paderewski is a thorough believer in physical culture. In speaking of his own profession, he deprecates the fact that it does not afford a wholly sufficient activity of muscle as of mind and advocates a course of physical training for pianists.

He complains that the strain on the neck and shoulders of pianists is at times almost unbearable. This discomfort to a player frequently prevents him from exercising his full vigor, and seriously affects his playing. But the after effect of a grand effort is exhausting to a player of sparse muscle and a good physique is the only safeguard against this suffering. The great pianist's views are summed up in the word harmony—a harmony of mind and muscle, as on everything else in nature.—New York World.

MONUMENT TO "BILL" ANTHONY.

A New York man whose identity is not made public, has contracted to pay for the erection of a monument over the grave of "Bill" Anthony, the hero of the Maine. The monument will be four feet high and three feet wide. It will be of granite, with rough rock face work. There will be carved on it two sprays of oak leaves and an anchor.

On a raised panel will be this inscription: "Sir, I have the honor to report that the ship is blown up and is sinking." also the hero's name, date of birth and date of death. It will be finished in February.—New York Journal.
